(Copyright 1930 by San Francisco Examiner and Evening Bulletin. Reprinted by permission of the publisher in whole or in part.)

San Francisco, Feb. 14. (AP)—Ing severe head winds, the steamer William Scoresby is approaching Deception Island with Capt. Sir Robert Wilkins, leader of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic expedition, and his three aides who have been for more than two weeks in the ice fields of the far South Polar region.

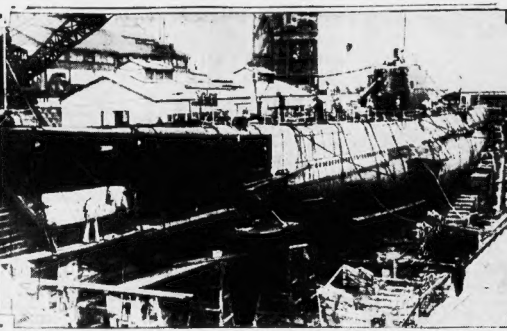

For a brief period the radio station at Wilkes, Thompson Island base was in communication with the Examiner. San Francisco radio station KIP. The message to the Examiner read:

"Wilkins is bound full speed for Deception Island, and should arrive here about 10 a. m. today, but due to heavy head winds he may be delayed."

"As soon as he arrives, the whole party will board the steamer Henrik Thoen which is now lying as anchor in the harbor, and will leave for Montevideo."

"On account of the heavy winds, it is very uncertain as to the exact time of arrival of the Scoresby. She may not get here until late in the afternoon."

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Royal Mail steamer Arctican was towed to quarantine for an inspection by divers today after laying at anchor since yesterday afternoon in Ambrose Channel, where she fouled a marker buoy in a heavy fog.

The ship's starboard propeller fouled the chains of the buoy on the west side of Ambrose Channel. Officials said the ship would continue its voyage to Bermuda immediately if it is found the propeller is undamaged.

CONFESS LOST BOY WAS SLAIN

Wanted O. Feb. 14 (AP). Four-year-old Melvin Hoot, buried since he disappeared nearly 14 months ago, was slain the day he disappeared by one of two men during a drinking party, according to signed statements attributed to them by Special Assistant Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey.

Mougey announced today that Earl Condit, 33-year-old former railroad brakeman and Charles Hanna of Woburn, had made sworn statements in which each declared the other killed the child.

Hanna signed a statement in which he said Condit coaxed the Hoot boy into an automobile in a garage near the Condit home and then killed him, Mougey said.

Condit declared it was Hanna who put the boy in the car and then killed him.

"My God! I believe I've killed him."

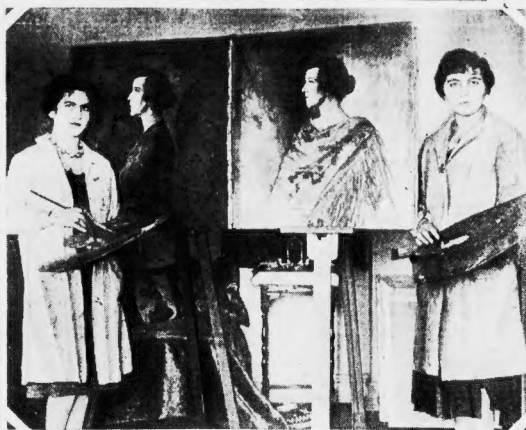

Neither told what became of the boy. If the body is not found, Mougey is prepared to file either manslaughter or child stealing charges.

Church Property Tax Assailed in N. S.

Dartmouth, N. S., Feb. 14. Taxing of church property here resulted in strenuous protest from officials of seven church societies. Arguments have for the first time put a tax on the personal property of the churches which includes organs, staves and pulpits.

The question of taxing church property in Halifax County has been raised during the last few years and some of the clergy favor it.

CHICAGO PAY 20,000 HELP

Chicago, Feb. 14 (AP). Chicago turned a Valentine to the unemployed by paying 20,000 people today.

On the radio however, was announced, the negro artist, Maudie.

On that day, one plan evolved by City Controller George K. Williams and City Treasurer Charles S. Peterson, which will provide for 20,000 people, for a first half of January, totaling $200,000.

To make the check cashable, this amount has been borrowed from the city's reserve fund and the entire tax has been assigned to the city's tax collector.

If Woes Pursue You, Think of Little Tom

Providence, Feb. 14. When you wake in the middle of the night in a cold sweat, thinking of the stock market and what bills and the wolf that may be howling on the doorstep, give a little thought to Tom Ford.

amount has been borrowed from the city's reserve fund and the entire tax has been assigned to the city's tax collector.

Tom celebrated his ninth birthday in the Memorial Hospital at Dartmouth, Feb. 14. He was a steel brace, standing up to a white setting. That's the way he has spent his last four birthdays and how many more he must pass that way, the doctors say.

But he doesn't complain. He enjoyed a party in his home given by 15 relatives and friends in the afternoon and he was very happy. His day present was the promise of a fine home computer that a uncle will give him before the year is over.

CHILD WELFARE WORK OF CLUBS LAUDED BY STATE OFFICIALS

FOR child welfare work women stand preeminently qualified. With their instincts, sympathies and training women can make and have made outstanding achievements in this field.

Mrs. Axel A. Decker, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, at the luncheon conference of the department of social welfare, publicly announced that the club women had accepted the challenge of service proposed by the heads of departments of the State and stood ready to be called by the governor.

Ever since Governor Allen announced his 1936 social welfare program, Bay State club women have signified repeatedly their intention of following his suggestions, offering themselves and their service in any field of work with children.

The conference, arranged by the department of social welfare, was attended by Mrs. Albee Bradley Carter, chief secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, who presided. Mrs. Carter, who is also chief secretary of the department of social welfare, presided over the luncheon conference of the State and Federal departments of public welfare, education, finance and probation.

GOVERNOR ASSENT

Governor Allen was to have attended and presided over the program, but was unable to do so. In his stead, Mrs. Julius Andrews of his executive council explained the program and called upon the women for assistance.

Time can be measured by big names. Dr. A. W. H. Stearns informed the audience.

When we think of children, some of us think of them as subjects. We think from them as sympathetically.

But crime and crime are not to be treated from above. Give them a lesson. But crime and crime are not to be treated from above. Give them a lesson.

It will come about through these fine agencies designed to keep them out of prison. And every dollar you give on probation is an investment in the future.

Of the 100 adoptions annually, the feeble-minded are the long by the means of keeping these people out of prison.

Out at Norfolk we have a new institution and there are many things new. We are trying to understand the make give him opportunities and advantages that he might get in society for his benefit.

It still is a sad truth that a man upon leaving prison is seriously handicapped, socially ruined. We must move to prevent this from for his discredit.

We really know very little of the process. True, we know he has two eyes, two hands, two feet, we know a lot on the diagnostic side, but actually we don't know the man.

Dr. Stearns urged the continued action of social agencies and their work with children as the greatest measure in the reduction of crime.

PREVENTION NEEDED
One out of every 28 people in the State is cared for in the hospital for mental sick. Dr. Julius Kim, mental hygiene commissioner, told the group. There were 24,000 such patients in the state hospitals and on their care between eleven and twelve millions were spent last year, he said.

Dr. Kim stressed the fact that the cure of the mentally sick would never be adequate merely by the continued addition of beds.

"Prevention to be of real service and actual importance must be carried on in the age limit of childhood," the commissioner said.

Robert C. Parsons, probation commissioner called for the creation of more juvenile courts modeled after Judge Cabot's court in Boston.

Theodore C. Lathrop, chairman of the special children's commission, outlined the growing conviction and growing commitment of the public toward child welfare.

The future of the Commonwealth, he said, depends on children.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Tea Film to Be Shown at Martha Lee Cooking School Next Tuesday Night

SIGN UP FOR NEW CLASSES

"An added attraction" as the "Tea Film" will be, in the Martha Lee Cooking School next Tuesday evening will be the showing of an interesting movie on the growing and preparation of tea. This short film, which will be shown through the courtesy of the Lipton Tea Company, will be in addition to the regular demonstration lecture given by Martha Lee. Visitors are welcome if there are any seats left over after the opening hour of 6:30 p. m.

And two going to repeat that before we realize it, April 1st will be here with the opening of the spring cooking classes. They are filling up rapidly, and if you want to take advantage of the last opportunity until next fall to enjoy these popular culinary parties, you'd better send your enrollment in now to Martha Lee, care of this paper, at 5 Winchester St.

To answer the hundreds of letters of inquiry that will pour in about our school, we'll also repeat that these free demonstration cooking lectures are given through the courtesy of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser, on the fifth floor, at 5 Winchester St., in the Martha Lee Cooking School.

The Tuesday night class is for brides and business girls and young mothers who cannot leave home extensively in the afternoon. The Wednesday afternoon class is the Homecoming School, attended by housewives, housewives from all over New England.

The classes are limited to 25 ladies, so that it is necessary to enroll in advance and secure tickets of admission. Each course is different, but each covers every foundation step in modern cooking.

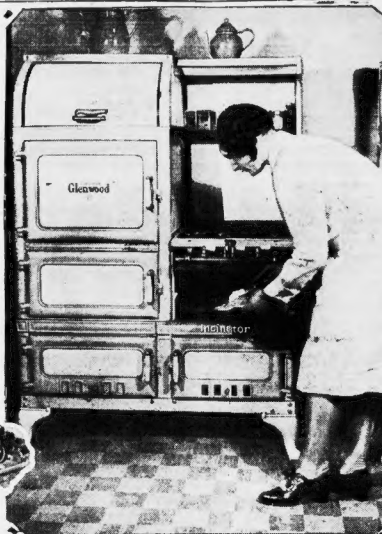

If your application for enrollment, please give your membership number in the Martha Lee Women's Club. Or, if you are not already a member, ask for a membership card and register number which will be sent you promptly, also without charge.

Cambridge Man, Hit by Motor Car, Is Dead

The first fatal accident on Massachusetts Ave., in North Cambridge since the installation of the safety islands, was recorded with the death of Timothy Clifford, 64, Pemberton St., Cambridge, at the Cambridge City Hospital. His death was the result of a fractured skull.

Clifford was hit Monday while crossing Massachusetts Ave. at Bridge Ave. by an automobile operated by John H. Weaver of Huntington Ave., Boston, according to the police.

Delicious Creamed Ham; Incinerator in Stove

The incinerator built into our gas range solves the kitchen refuse problem in the Martha Lee kitchen.

When we read "Ham on Croustades" on a fashionable menu, we needn't be awed a bit, for we know that these very same bread baskets can be quickly and easily made at home. Their chief point of recommendation is that they are not expensive and more abundant than the usual patties.

To prepare the bread baskets, in which the creamed ham in the picture is shown, cut day-old bread in two-inch slices, then cut in shingling and hollow out by cutting with a sharp knife one-half inch from the edge all the way round. Take out the center with a spoon, brush with butter (a sprinkling of grated cheese is good, too), and brown in a moderate oven or fry in deep fat. To fix a cup cream sauce, in cups of cold roasted or boiled ham, diced in added with one thick minced pimiento and an equal amount of chopped onion. The bread baskets are filled, garnished with parsley, and in the illustrated one-dish dinner are served with stuffed pimiento and parsley potatoes.

For the Stuffed Pimiento Butter, spread cups well, fit a canned pimiento in each cup and fill with the following mixture:

- 2 cups tender boiled rice,
- 1 tbsp. grated onion,
- 1 cup strained tomatoes,
- 2 1/2 lbs. butter.

When you wish a rich, dark meat color, for soups and stews and gravies, use caramel, which is sugar molten in a frying pan until a golden brown, and then dissolved in a little water.

NEW WINE FLAVORED SAUCE

Be original! Try something new and delicious on Martha's Waffles the next time you serve them sauce that's really flavored with old-fashioned rum or sherry wine. And best of all, is offered at an introductory price of only 25c a jar, in 85c. value.

You'll like this wine sauce, too, on desserts, puddings, in fruit salads, and cocktails, and in ice cream—or on it.

One of the most frequent questions we are asked is where wine flavorings may be purchased, so I am sure hundreds of you will be interested in trying this new product which combines the real wine flavoring with a delicious sauce.

Try it, too, combined with milk, and let me to-day attack his lips and ask for more.

NEW ICE PLANT A WONDER

If grandmother could have been with me today, she would certainly have shed tears at the sight of the new ice plant, a wonder of the age of electric refrigeration.

She would have been as astonished as I am over a truly wonderful piece of refrigeration machinery, an exclusive system for making drinking water, as well as a method that, according to the manufacturer, will keep the water in the refrigerator for 10 days without being refilled.

Every drop of the ice and water is made in a special way, and the refrigerator will guard you from the danger of getting a cold at the very least, as the water is kept at the exact temperature at all times.

End of all the trouble of making ice, and of the expense of buying it, is a truly wonderful piece of refrigeration machinery. The new ice plant is a truly wonderful piece of refrigeration machinery, and it is a truly wonderful piece of refrigeration machinery.

The men, who were about 250 feet away from the main office, were shot by the police.

Start Building Her Future NOW

THE dreams you dream . . . the plans you make . . . dreaming and planning for her. Wishing and hoping that they'll all come true. It's a great joy to dream and plan . . . but it's an even greater joy to know that you are helping her develop a firm, robust body, strong bones and solid teeth.

Keep on encouraging her to get plenty of sunshine, fresh air and rest. And at mealtimes, give her wholesome, body-building food. Give your youngsters whole wheat. Nature crowds into this grain the sturdy nourishment children need most.

Ralston is whole wheat in all its completeness. None of the vital elements have been removed to alter its color or change its rich, natural flavor. Five minutes . . . and Ralston is ready to serve . . . warm and welcomed by delicate "tummies" because it is digested easily.

Growing children and grown-ups also like Ralston Wheat Flakes . . . the deliciously crunchy flakes that are made of whole wheat . . . bran and all.

Ask your grocer for both . . . Ralston Whole Wheat Cereal and Ralston Wheat Flakes.

How a Girl Helped Her Affianced in His Business

CHAPTER II

GORDON knew that it was time he took matters into his own hands. He would insist on talking business to Forbes now before Daisy had any further chance to antagonize him.

But before he could get up courage to lay down the law to her before all these people, she fluttered across the room toward him, her face aglow with excitement.

"Wait," she said breathlessly. "I have the most marvelous idea. Why not persuade Mr. Leach to tell us the story of his new motion picture, while Mr. Van Dyke plays the music for it?"

A dozen good reasons came instantly to mind; the irresistible Bill broke in, while Forbes beamed on him with gratitude.

But no one else paid any attention to Bill, least of all Daisy. She was so convinced that at last she had thought of a sure-fire way to entertain her guests that she fairly pushed them back into their chairs.

You will act out your new story for us, won't you?" she fairly pleaded with Vincent.

Already he had taken his stand facing the guests, but he remembered weakly.

"My dear Miss Parker, I would do anything for you, but I don't know that the others—"

Daisy broke in— "Oh, you must do it for us. We all love it, wouldn't we, Gordon?"

Gordon's mild remonstrance was drowned out in the enthusiastic chorus from Angela and Miss Forbes.

"Well, of course, it would be interesting for you."

Leach seemed to be thinking aloud, as his eyes took on a far-away look. "You business men have so few opportunities to come in contact with creative artists."

"Creative art with?" Forbes muttered to himself, as he leaned his head back on the arm of the sofa for support.

"And how long this picture?" Bill interrupted, just as Leach brushed his hair back with a grand gesture and seemed about to begin.

Bill could not blame Leach. He had a perfect armor of defense. He was sure that if anyone directed him, that person was wrong.

It is very long," Leach answered as though he were offering a boon on the community. All of my pictures are long. But you would object if there were any other pictures on a program tonight."

"Oh, do start," Daisy urged. "We can't wait."

"Well, at least we can smoke," Gordon entreated. "As he had a perfect armor of defense, he was sure that if anyone directed him, that person was wrong."

"I shall have to concentrate," Leach addressed the guests. "I can't have any interruptions. I am assured that if there were any other pictures on a program tonight, it would be disastrous."

"The name of the picture?" he began in an awed tone, though he was about to reveal something rather, "a story."

With a crash of music on the piano, Scholier Van Dyke dropped him out. For a moment the disgruntled group made up of Gordon and Bill looked on him as an ally. But at a word from Leach, the music subsided.

"Not yet," he commanded loudly. And when a faint smile appeared on his face, he said, "Remember, it is the story that is important, the music is just incidental."

Yes, we must hear every word. Daisy seemed rattling her bracelets on a band that they sounded like castles.

"I am going to tell you about a story about Bill throughout the ages."

It wouldn't really have mattered to Forbes what he told about. Even if his story had been good, Forbes wouldn't have liked it. And as it happened this story of Leach's was the worst.

Daisy and Angela, sitting on the edge of their chairs, were wide-eyed with excitement. But Gordon, struggling nobly, had succumbed to sleep. Only Forbes suffered, chewing his cigar to shreds, and wondering if he could possibly control his desire to strangle the human talking machine before him.

Call Chief Broad to Account; Says He'll Take Charge of Force Himself

On the heels of a sharp criticism today called Police Chief James H. Broad to account and announced that changes affecting some officers of the department are to be made next week.

Not Broad nor Callahan (deputy chief) is going to be head of that department, but Fred Manning is, said the mayor who, under the new charter, is commander-in-chief of the police force.

Mayor Manning also disclosed, "that without his knowledge, Chief Inspector Kane had been suspended by the chief as president of cases in court and that some private telephone had been put in a party line with Chief Broad."

He followed this up with a charge that the police department was spending too much time on minor traffic violations.

CALLS BROAD FROM COURT

The shaking of the liquor squad was not a surprise, inasmuch as Mayor Leach had previously said that today's events appeared to be something more than a surprise to Chief Broad and the rank and file of the department, as well.

Chief Broad, and the rank and file of the department, as well as the Mayor, were called to court at Salem on police business when Mayor Manning sent for them to meet at City Hall and after.

The mayor said: "I wanted the liquor squad to get the worst beats the department has but one of them got a prize night beat on Union st., a couple were put on morning and a couple more were put on night. Police officers who did not want the liquor squad were put on it."

The department spends too much time monkeying around with minor traffic violations. I want to know why Chief Inspector Kane was suspended in the office while Chief Broad was over in court prosecuting the case for years.

CHANGES NEXT WEEK

I wanted to know why the telephone of Chief Broad and Kane had been changed in party lines when they were always private lines heretofore. How do they ever expect to get police information on their telephone as those?"

Chief Broad's reply was that he did not think the Mayor was interested enough to become excited over these changes and he had done what he thought was the best he could do. The shift will stay as they are for a few days. Another change is coming the first of next week regarding superior officers.

The liquor squad shook followed the discovery that some of the members had profited by buying civilian clothes for $34 when the city allowed them $25. The only man not shifted were Sgt. John Healey, the leader, and Worthen Hathaway.

When I battle Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion at the Miami Stadium on the night of February 27, I do not intend to hit him a single punch below the chest.

CHRISTNER DUE M'Coy Tosses Gardini Twice in Arena Bout

Bob Ribber McCoy, ex-Roly Cross grifter star, defeated Renato Gardini in two straight falls in the feature bout of Paul House's show at the Arena.

But, unless I have been getting all the tips possible on Scott's boxing style. One of the reasons why I hired George Cook, Australian heavyweight, as a sparring partner was because he fought Scott twice. Cook lost a leg and a hand to Scott and also was beaten by Phil on a foul in eight rounds.

Hair is an asset worth keeping

WATCH THESE POINTS

A GOOD head of hair is indeed an asset worth keeping. It is proof that its owner has sufficient pride in his own personal appearance to care for his hair as he cares for any other part of his physical make-up. Unfortunately he cannot select his hair, as he selects other valuable assets, like bonds, but he can select a competent, honest hair and scalp specialist to help him retain the hair he has or regrow that which he has lost. If he is a wise man, he will select The Thomas' for this purpose.

You should select The Thomas' to help and save distress, stop falling hair, or grow hair because they have been so extensively successful in their work that they have been in business for over 15 years. What they are doing for others, they can do for you. Call today for a free scalp examination.

LEADERS' VIEWS MARKETS

ABC Education for Employers, Workers Urged

Profits Not Earned Cannot Be Divided; Textile Trade's Plight

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—More cannot be divided than this is to divide.

British workers have learned that simple fact notwithstanding the many services which have been since the war.

One reason for American industrial leadership is that more enlightened how leaders and workers have acted.

Accordingly.

As has been thought, however, in all industries, with the exception that we have had much full labor trouble.

Consider, for example, the history of our textile industry.

Twenty-five years ago the writer devoted six months to writing about the cotton, woolen, and silk industries. They were distinctly more prosperous then than they have been in more recent years. For this, in my humble judgment, the textile manufacturers are themselves largely to blame. They have been slow to recognize the problem of expanding their market by seeking new uses for their product. They made no effort to combat the new conditions created by the advent of the electric loom.

They did little but vainly complain of the world war. They were late in recognizing the need for advertising to their sales. They were slow to recognize the need for advertising to their sales. They were slow to recognize the need for advertising to their sales.

When other more enterprising industries made investments in their machinery, they hesitated. They hesitated to invest in their machinery. They hesitated to invest in their machinery.

Not without reason the textile workers and their leaders objected. But they, too, failed to take a long view. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created.

They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created.

They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created.

They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created.

They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created. They failed to take the realities of the conditions when they were created.

PRE-TAKING CHECKS USE OF BIG CURB

New York Feb. 14 (AP).

The recent uptick in the Curb Market has been due to the fact that the utility shares have been taken in the utility shares today after further advances during the early part of the session.

Several of the less active shares, particularly among the utility shares, were bid up to new high levels for the first time in some time.

A featured of the utility group was Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, which shot up about 8 points in the early trading, only to lose most of its gain later.

United States Electric Power and Standard Fuel & Light responded to announcement of the purchase of the Mellon interests in the group with moderate advances during the first hour.

American Superpower, American Gas & Electric, and Electric Power & Light showed moderate losses by early afternoon.

Among industrials leading the best of the year were Drexel, Hays, Collins, and O. Smith. The latter three had been active in the early part of the session.

Alcoa, Alcoa, and Alcoa. The latter three had been active in the early part of the session.

Why Labor Makes Money

Here's the Reason

ONE REASON why organized labor prospers and wins respect is contained in a bulletin of Electrical Workers Union No. 3, of New York City.

The bulletin just received here says:

"Standards are set up for the benefit of the public. They protect. They save money. They conserve life and property."

"Standards in the electrical field today are not the whim of workmen or employers. They were achieved after slow, painful and costly experience, the loss of many millions of dollars in property, and many human lives."

"Standards may be said to represent civilized practices as opposed to crude barbaric methods. This union is creating GOOD standards and protecting them. Members are penalized for doing careless or faulty work. They are also required to correct defective work on their own time."

"The union compels its members, both blippers and Johnnies, to attend night schools until they learn to know what they need to know and what they are PAID TO KNOW."

Then follow numerous photographs of good work and bad work, and statistics of the losses caused by defective wiring, together with repeated violations of the electrical code.

The union says with commendable frankness that some cases of defective wiring have been traced to its own members. It does not claim 100 per cent perfection.

That will not hurt it with the public, which likes honesty as well as efficiency from its workers.

The stand taken by this union is intelligent—good for its members, good for its customers.

It is a striking example of the best qualities of American labor, preserving something of the old guild spirit of pride in work in our modern machine age.

No wonder the American workman is the best paid in the world. He earns it by fair work and fair play, as the records of this union and other unions abundantly demonstrate.

The Corner Cop

Hea Humen

THE job of the Boston police would be easier if parents would help.

How often have you heard them say to children: "If you don't behave I'll tell the policeman over there. He'll get you."

That old household gag has been worked on most of us as youngsters, and we work it on our own if we have any.

It is effective, but it is poor propaganda for the police.

The cop on the corner is human under all these brass buttons. He would rather see the kids on his beat grow up right than wrong. But he can't help much if children are taught from infancy to look at him as their natural enemy.

Think that over next time it comes up.

Thomas H. Huxley

By ARTHUR L. HENDERSON

It is one of the most singular provisions of value in the history of science that Huxley should be related to the below Darwin.

In most respects, he was exactly Darwin's superior. As a writer Huxley was incomparably above Darwin.

As a debater and controversialist, he was probably the most successful and effective in the entire history of science. As a thinker, he was much clearer and more logical than Darwin.

It is not so important that Huxley was high rank as a man of letters. It is, furthermore, an injustice to Huxley to assert, as many do, that he was not a creative scientist, but only an exponent of other men's ideas.

The truth is that he and Darwin had a very similar training at the beginning of their careers.

BORN at Ealing, near a suburb of London, on May 4, 1825, Thomas Huxley began his career by studying the doctrine of profession. After studying medicine in London, he took a long period of years, he fought like a gladiator in behalf of the principle of evolution.

He was a far more vigorous fighter and debater than Darwin himself. He was a better and more modest fighter and debater than Darwin himself.

He was a far more vigorous fighter and debater than Darwin himself. He was a better and more modest fighter and debater than Darwin himself.

He was a far more vigorous fighter and debater than Darwin himself. He was a better and more modest fighter and debater than Darwin himself.

He was a far more vigorous fighter and debater than Darwin himself. He was a better and more modest fighter and debater than Darwin himself.

Do Animals Laugh?

No, They Only SEEM to Laugh

YOU are often told that animals laugh, and some expressions on their faces appear to confirm the statement.

BUT ANIMALS DO NOT LAUGH.

The horse in this picture that seems to be laughing, is not laughing at all. This expression that you often see on a horse's face is a sort of a yawn.

The little dog at the bottom, a prize winning creature named "Bandy," has an expression greater to a laugh than most animals.

But he is not laughing, only looking happy, and panting.

Animals do not laugh because they feel emotions ONLY ONE AT A TIME. They are happy or sad, angry or hungry. They have only ONE idea in the brain at ONE time.

Laughter, which comes from contrasting and comparing, requires complicated thought, capacity to deal with at least two subjects at once. The fine old gentleman slipping on a banana peel, or losing his hat in a gale of wind causes men to laugh, although it should not. We laugh because we see the contrast between the old gentleman in his morning dignified state and in the condition produced by the banana peel, or the wind.

We laugh reading Falstaff's conversation with the Prince, because our minds are able to reconstruct the scenes and the characters in it.

And, incidentally, you may add, "Tell me who CRYSTAL is."

Some savages will laugh uproariously on seeing a human being tortured.

And we have savages in our big Christian cities that laugh when they see a poor drunken staggering and falling, or even an unhappy woman sitting drunk in a doorway.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—Thoughts

Circle show prospects waving again of the end of the world. Frederick Der Stein, the artist, who created Sherlock Holmes in black and white.

A rubberneck waving microphone calls out: "The home of David Belasco" while passing the Hotel Marie Antoinette. But it isn't Bernard Macfadden on the long daily bike to his office. Never anybody in those Drive-Your-Own-Car places.

The Royal colony on West 67th St. Flips. Brinkhoff, Chris. Fisher and scores of top notches. Apartments over stables. The Hotel des Artistes. Fannie Hurst with her portable Pom. The fresh air addicts who sit on the park benches reading. Gladstein.

John Huger, the traffic cop at 72d St. Crones with gummy socks who pick up dry sticks and waste paper. Children with their noses on The Mall. The amazing changes in the Fifth ave. skyline. With Millions.

Frank Knox, a Boston, Mass. boy, who made good in the city. The exclusive Metropolitan Club. And the thickets of hotels around the Plaza fountain. Tuxedoed clerks in the Sherry-Netherland.

And the very British "very good air" Funkies at the Savoy-Plaza. Elmer Rice, the playwright. White chaps. Beasts at midday sit up for no reason at all.

An ancient rabby shouts: "I used to drive President Roosevelt." Lou Tellegay, rabbi valour. People who ask you how you are and don't give a hoot. The moderate wine-dew cranes pecking down the perfect crop.

Lower Fifth Avenue for years has observed two women in black who appear at the same hour in the late evening and walk northward on opposite sides of the street, one on 54th street turn back and go over town and the other and yet keep in perfect step.
